Done Sugar Coating.

Triplet, of the Frankfort Capital, the Colgan of the Kentucky press, has resolved to call things by their English names hereafter in conducting his personal columns. He says of his past performance: "I've sugar coated persons until they looked like pay locals for a candy stand. I've manufactured enough satin and diamonds since I've been in this 'personal' business to make a canopy from here to China and pave it with solitaires. I've done more dress-making than a milliner, made more beautiful dancers than old Prof. Watell, dyed more hair than a barber; in fact I've done everything! I've changed regular piano-keys into rows of pearls; covered acres of freckles with the bloom of youth; made grey hair black; made black hair blonde; made bald heads hairy and straight hair curly; metamorphosed hideousness into beauty, and touched the tottering footsteps of age with the elasticity of youth. You ought to see me in the 'figure' line. I can make old Mike Angelo's ghost ashamed of itself. I'm the boss modeler. I've made some of the slickest fairest, gracefulest Venuses and Hebes you ever saw out of regular pie boxes, and surrounded them with beaus when you could not get a stag in twenty yards of them."

LIFE'S BURDENS.—A large part of life's burdens are self-imposed and wholly needless. Fear of calamities which never happen, a doleful habit of looking at the worst, a suspicious disposition, a jealous turn of mind—these are the tyrants that load us with burdens heavy to bear and needless to carry. If we should honestly examine the various burdens of our lives, we would be surprised to find how many of them are of this character. Not only may we drop them if we will, but justice to others demands that we should. A man or woman habitually unhappy is essentially selfish, and is always a thorn in the community. There are enough crosses and trials in life which must be borne, without manufacturing artificial and needless ones; and the more thoroughly we rid ourselves of the latter, the more energy and spirit we can bring to bear upon the former.

Walton, a locksmith, of Birmingham, Eng., has a master key which he claims is capable of opening 22,600 patent lever locks, all the locks to be different—that is to say each of the 22,600 locks may be different in their wards and combinations. The key weighs three ounces and is nickel-plated. It has taken the inventor three years to complete the drawings of the different wards and combinations which enabled this extraordinary product of human ingenuity to be made.

When a Chinese boy is one month old his head is shaved and a bladder is drawn over it, and as his head grows the bladder bursts and the cure sprouts forth. The first shave is made the occasion of a magnificent banquet and the guests are expected to make the host a handsome present in coin for the newly shaven baby, with which a bank account is started to his credit.

If we did not "mutilate," that is edit down and put into shape for the printers, the manuscript sent in, we would soon attract unenviable attention. Writers could, and we wish they would, but they do not, put their manuscript in correct shape for immediate use; for of all the various kind of editorial drudgery, doing that work is the worst.

It was Mr. St. John: Secretary—Here is a telegram from one of the Presidential candidates asking for a special train. President—Certainly, let him have it. Which one is it, Blaine or Cleveland? Secretary—Neither. It's Mr. St. John. President—Wire him the special trains are all engaged.

Mr. Isaac Cane, a rich shoemaker of Liverpool, who left his property to public charities, opened his first shop opposite the building where he had been a servant, and put up a sign, which read: "I. Cane—from over the way."

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by Jno. B. Fish.

—J. J. Thompson's little daughter died last Thursday of spinal meningitis.

—Elder Savage of the M. E. Church, preached at this place yesterday. Having been assigned to this circuit, he will preach regularly on the 4th Sunday in each month.

—The democracy in mass convention Saturday declared for Hon. G. W. McClure for member of Board of Equalization as first choice and J. B. Nickols, of Boyle, as second choice.

—Miss Cleo Williams has been indisposed for several days. Jack Adams Jr., is able to be on the streets again. M. N. Langford is very low with a lung disease and is not expected to recover.

—Joe Thompson, who has been confined on the streets for about two months with a heavy pair of shackles, made his escape Thursday. He just walked off and no one seems to know or care anything about him only all are glad that he is gone.

—The miners who have been digging coal for the Livingston Coal Co., are out on a strike. They complain of the screen, which they say is too coarse and lets too much good coal go to waste. It is supposed that they will be induced to resume work in a few days.

—John L. Whitehead has added a bright, new street lamp in front of his drug store in this place, which we had failed to notice in this column before, and we can say that if several others of our enterprising business men would do likewise they would improve the looks of the town very materially. On dark nights it is almost dangerous to walk the streets for fear of falling through a crack in the planks or stumbling over a rock in the side walks. These lamps give plenty of light and only cost about $10 each.

—Sam Thompson, Garrard Thompson, B. H. Joplin, Andy Young and T. T. Wallace composed a fishing party who went to the mouth of Lime Creek last Sunday week on a big fishing spree. Toles came back on the third day, the others came in yesterday. They caught some very fine fish, but if it had not been for the squirts, which are very plentiful in that country, they would have almost starved for something to eat, not to say anything about something to drink. At any rate they did not show any fish when they came back to town.

—All parts of the county was represented at the speaking Saturday and I have heard several men say that it was the largest crowd that ever assembled at this place to hear public speaking. The Governor spoke first, and made a good speech, as he usually does. Mr. Sebastian then took the floor and spoke his speech, which did not seem to entertain his republican friends very much. From the manner in which Captain Sebastian speaks, I don't think he expects to go to Congress from the 8th Congressional District of Kentucky this year. It is conceded that he will carry this county, but by a reduced majority.

—T. S. Miller, of Garrard is in town today. Mr. and Mrs. Mullins, of Livingston, were in town last Saturday. Messrs. W. M. and D. M. Irvine, of Richmond, are in town this week. Miss Zula Williams has returned home from a visit to Indiana and Louisville. Miss Tinsley, of Barbourville, Ky., is visiting Miss Eliza Stuart, of this county. Mrs. H. Carpenter and Mrs. Kittle Bragg are visiting the family of W. M. Weber, at Knoxville, Tenn. W. M. Weber is spending a few days at this place. Mr. A. Pullins, of Paint Lick, is in town. Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Shumate have gone to the old Steve Cummins place near Brodhead to begin house keeping. Miss Susie Woodard, of Brodhead, is visiting at J. W. Brown's. Mrs. T. A. Gresham, of Livingston, spent several days in town last week.

It is estimated by Professor Gannymore that in the United States, during one season, 62,420 gallons of human blood are drawn by mosquitoes. In twenty years, the grand total amounts to 1,248,400 gallons of blood—nearly as much as was spilled during the war of the rebellion. These facts are alarming. Just think, will you, that in 100 years 124,840,000 gallons of as good blood as this country has ever produced will have been spilled without a single point having been gained. It is very well to talk about the navy, but something should be done to protect the American people from the singing vampires of the night.—[Arkansas Traveler.]

A scientist says: "One single oyster will produce 128,000,000 young oysters in the course of a year." When he reaches the statistics concerning married ones he will astonish us, no doubt.

"I Don't Feel Like Work."

It makes no difference what business you are engaged in: whether you are a preacher, a merchant, a mechanic, a lawyer or a common laborer, you can't do your work well while you are half sick. Thousands try to, but all in vain. How much better to keep your organs in good order by taking Parker's Tonic when you feel a little out of sorts. It would be money in your pocket. One hour of good, refreshing health is worth half a dozen hours of languor and pain.

TRY IT YOURSELF.

The proof of the pudding is not in chewing the string, but in having an opportunity to try the article yourself. McRoberts & Stagg, the Druggists, have a free trial bottle of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup for each and every one who is afflicted with Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Consumption or any Lung Affection.

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Farmers seem to think that a good deal of wheat will have to be sown over owing to the dry weather.

—Mr. Clayton Best, of Texas, brother of Tyre Best, who committed suicide at Fort Worth, Texas, is here on a visit.

—James Davis shipped a car load of fat hogs to Cincinnati last Saturday, the first that has been shipped from here this season.

—It is currently reported that Rice, the junior partner of the firm of Rice & Smith, is going to take unto himself another partner next Thursday.

—The dwelling house and contents of Andy Saunders, colored, was consumed by fire Monday morning about 4 o'clock. The house has been lately built at a cost of $3,000. No insurance.

—Charley Waters fell through a stable loft and came near being killed. He fell on a pile of coal his head and shoulders striking first. It was thought that his shoulder was dislocated.

—Our postmaster says Sebastian is sure to be elected because he has slept with him many a night. Association has a great deal to do with a person, but it will take more than that to take brother Sebastian through.

—Two little daughters of Mr. Jack Smith died with malarial fever last week. There has been a great deal of fever in this vicinity. Wallace Gausey is quite sick with same disease. Callie, the little babe of Mr. Jack Adams, Jr., is quite sick.

—John Quinley bought of Enoch Wear a horse for $75. Quinley was afraid that Wear would back out, so he made him a tender of $10 to make the trade good. Quinley failing to raise the amount required went and told Wear that there was a misunderstanding about it and demanded the $10 and told Wear that he had acted a d—n rascal. They then went to work in a rough and tumble fight. After they had made a few rounds parties interfered and separated them. Quinley came out with a piece of Wear's ear in his mouth and Wear came out with the $10 in his pocket.

BIOGRAPHY.

Sidney Smith.

Sidney Smith was born in 1771 in England. His father was an Englishman of independent fortune, his mother was of French extraction. He combined the solid understanding of the English with the wit and vivacity of the French. He was educated at Winchester School and New College, Oxford. After completing his course he took holy orders, and settled as a curate in the parish of Amesbury, where he did not stay long. He became associated with the Edinburgh Review, and was one of the most important contributors to that Review, probably the most popular on account of his judgment and wit. In 1803 he went to London, where he became popular as a preacher and lecturer on moral philosophy. His essays were written chiefly on temporary topics and controversies, but took a good place in English literature for the clear and vigorous reasoning, solid sense and exquisite humor which they displayed. His wit is always logical, driving home his argument with irresistible power. His views on political and social questions were wise and practical, and he lived to see most of them adopted. He erred at times in treating sacred subjects with levity, but the fault was attributed to his natural temperament, overflowing with a grotesque humor that could and would make anything ridiculous. He wrote some articles on the finances of the United States, but they were never published.

Noah Webster.

Noah Webster was born at West Hartford, Ct., in 1758. He graduated from Yale College, and was admitted to the bar in 1791. Soon after this he became a school-teacher, and wrote several very able dissertations on the English language. In 1793 he began to issue in New York a daily paper called the Minerva, which was soon after changed to Commercial Advertiser. About the year 1798 he removed to New Haven, and began his labors on his "Dictionary on the English Language," which was published in 1828. He died in May, 1843.

—There are 5,000,000 land-owners in France, the average size of the farms being about ten acres. The best land outside of the vineyards there is worth about $400 per acre.

N. B.—By buying a small bill of us you can save enough to pay your railroad fare both ways for a distance of 10 to 20 miles. Bring this bill with you as we advertise nothing but facts.

W. P. WALTON.

The impression seems to prevail that the proposition for the people to vote the bond subscription for the Chesapeake & Nashville railroad is one of the pet schemes of this paper. Such is by no means the case. We took no part in the meeting which originated the scheme and were not present when it was adopted. We can always be counted on, however, to advocate any enterprise that we believe will increase the wealth of the county by developing her resources and giving greater value both to her lands and her products. We have studied the plan proposed and have failed to discover wherein the county can lose by the investment. We are only asked to loan our credit to the railroad company, for which we are to be fully secured by the first mortgage bonds of a railroad that is destined to become one of the greatest trunk lines in the South. The L. & N. railroad is mortgaged to the amount of $56,000 to the mile and yet its first mortgage bonds are above par. The new road's mortgage is fixed at $30,000 and there is every assurance that in a few years its bonds will be at a premium. The company has evidently much confidence in them for it refused to let out the contract for building the Tennessee river bridge on a proposition from contractors to do the work for half cash and the balance in bonds at 90 cents on the dollar, saying that in no event should they go for less than par. The county bonds are not to be delivered until the road is an assured fact and then only a small percentage of them, the bulk being retained until the entire completion of the road. It will be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the county to secure the proposed road and when we may be able to secure it by a simple exchange of bonds equally as good as ours when the road is completed, we think the man who refuses to vote in favor of it is short-sighted and selfish and has no interest in the future good of the county.

ONE week from to-day the great armies of the democracy and the republicans will meet in the battle of the ballots to determine whether an honest, capable and conservative statesman shall sit at the head of governmental affairs for the next four years or whether there shall be a continuance of republican misrule by the election of a proved liar, a bribed office-holder and an unscrupulous adventurer. The signs are that the right will prevail and that after March next the democracy will examine the books, which for 20 years have been closely guarded from public scrutiny. Kentucky is sure to cast her electoral vote to that end, but a vote less in the popular majority will be hailed by the republicans as a gain for them and will be heralded far and near that even solid old Kentucky is wavering in her allegiance to the party which for sixty years made this the grandest country on the globe. We should then be up and doing in Lincoln and give Cleveland and Hendricks as many votes as we did Tilden in 1876, and the natural increase besides. The majority in that year was 527. We can beat this 100 or more if we try and every man should feel it is duty to make the effort. Let every man do his duty and if we fail of victory, which we do not believe we will, we will have the consolation of knowing that the fault lies elsewhere and not with us.

SCARCELY less of importance than the Presidential contest is the election of Congressmen. The democrats have now a majority of about 70 in the popular branch of the National Legislature and yet the republicans claim that they intend to wipe out this large majority and change it to a majority for their side of the House. It is a part of their policy to claim even the entire planetary system and when they do they make extraordinary efforts to accomplish such claims. They are exerting themselves to the utmost now and it behooves the democracy all over the country to see that it is not caught napping. This district is not so strongly democratic that we can take any chances. It gave Phil Thompson less than a 1,000 majority when the republicans had a candidate whose record was not as pure as it might have been. This time they offer a man against whom nothing can be charged, but a painful ignorance of public men and measures. They will rally as a man to his support and the democracy should be as patriotic. The party has presented a candidate who is above reproach, one who has honored every station in life to which he has been called. As citizen, soldier, legislator and Governor he has acted his part with great credit to himself and to his constituents, who recognize in him a capable, safe and conscientious man in the discharge of every duty and obligation. Such a man is Hon. James Bennett McCreary, our honored standard bearer and the democracy will be false to itself if it does not rally as a man to support. His majority should not be less than 2,000 and if every democrat does his duty it will be more. Hurrah for the model Governor, who is destined to make the district a model Congressman, equal to, if not superior, to any she has ever had.

The official returns of the Ohio election show that the republicans are in the minority by 2,113, that is they lacked those figures of having as many votes as the democrats, greenbackers and prohibitionists combined. Considering that Blaine was wont to remark in his speeches while hippodroming over the State that he would regard anything less than 20,000 majority there a defeat, we suppose that in his innermost soul he must think the result a Waterloo for him and his party.

NEW YORK had another grand democratic parade Saturday night, when 250,000 people turned out. The World, which with its daily edition of 125,000, is doing such noble work for the party, is confident that the State will go democratic and says: "The skies are growing brighter and brighter politically. Reports from the interior of this State are full of encouragement for the friends of Cleveland and Honest Government. So far as this portion of the State is concerned matters could not be in a better shape. The city will give Mr. Cleveland at least 60,000 majority. Brooklyn and Kings county are good for 20,000 more. It is as certain as anything political can be that Mr. Cleveland will receive a larger majority this side of Harlem Bridge than Mr. Tilden received in 1876."

THE increase in the vote of Ohio over that of four years ago is 66,000. The democrats cast 39,000 votes more than they cast for Hancock, while the republicans, in spite of Blaine, Dudley and corruption, cast only 16,000 more than they cast for Garfield. In other words, nearly two-thirds of the new vote since 1880 went democratic, while a large portion of the republican one-third was unquestionably obtained by fraud and wholesale bribery in large cities.

BRUCE CHAMP, the old toper of the Bourbon News, wants the old postoffice at Paris converted into a bar-room, notwithstanding there are 40 licensed houses that sell intoxicating liquors. Some men are never satisfied.

The Buell stock is tanned by the old-fashioned long time cold liquor process, thereby producing soft and pleasant wearing material. Any method that will tan stock in ten to thirty days in order to make it cheap will unavoidably destroy its life, and when the oil used in dressing evaporates the leather becomes hard and brittle. A single thought should convince you that notwithstanding the difference in price, you can better afford to buy BUELL'S BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Champion Pugilist Reported to Be in a Sorry Plight, the Result of His Habits of Intoxication.

[Boston Cor. St. Paul Pioneer Press.]

Every dog has his day, is an old saying, and John L. Sullivan has seen his best day. Hum has got the best of him and is rapidly knocking him out. Sullivan's four through the country was one glorious drunk, which culminated in the Mitchell fiasco in New York. Although at that time he promised to "sweat off" and keep sober, he has not kept his word. For two or three weeks, while the disgrace lasted, he abstained from all intoxicants, but he has now gone back to his liquor worse than ever. At a recent sparring exhibition given in this city Sullivan was so drunk that he was unfit to appear, but did so nevertheless. He made a poor showing, and would have fallen down at one time had he not been held up by his adversary.

A few nights since he attended a wake held over the remains of his sister's child and got "choked a block." He has been drunk ever since, and in the opinion of sporting men, it is only the question of time when he will be easily knocked out by those whom he has "sweated off." He has got very little money. He has spent it as fast as he has made it. He doesn't even own his "mahogany palace" or gig-mill. A man named Clarke owns it and gives him a certain percentage on sales for the use of his name and his attendance when in the city.

I witnessed a rather funny thing the other day at a picnic which Sullivan and his pet pugilist, Pete McCoy, attended. There was one of those striking machines, always seen at picnics, on the ground. It consists of a standard upon which is marked the number of pounds weight of the blow, which is given with a huge wooden mallet.

"Try your strength," said the attendant to Sullivan.

John seized the mallet and gave the machine a terrible bang. Up went the registering iron and marked 2,800 pounds.

"A powerful blow," said the attendant. John tried it again, and a crowd gathered around to watch him. He took a firm grip and let drive again. This time the register flew up the standard and stopped at 3,200 pounds.

"Another powerful blow," sung out the attendant as he pulled it down.

There is a little "trick" to this machine which everybody does not know of. There is a thumb-screw attached to the register, which, when tightened, causes a greater friction, and it doesn't go up so high, even if the striker hits the machine twice as hard. The attendant gave this screw a turn, and when Sullivan struck again it only registered 2,400 pounds. As he had hit harder than before he looked surprised and the crowd laughed. This nettled John a bit and he let himself out. The screw was given another turn and 2,000 pounds was the result. Once more it was tightened, until it was about as solid to the standard as though it had been nailed. John pounded away, and 1,500 pounds was the result. Sullivan was disgusted, and handed the mallet over to Pete McCoy. The screw was loosened a couple of turns and away went the register up to 3,500 pounds. "I'll be blamed," said John, and getting mad he took off his coat and went for the machine once more. The attendant forgot to tighten the screw again, and when Sullivan hit it with all his giant strength, the register ran up the standard like a bullet-shot from a gun and flew high in the air. That satisfied John, and he put on his coat. When the joke was explained to him he was inclined to get mad and "lick" the attendant, but did not. He threw him a silver dollar and departed.

Sullivan never asks any change. I saw him the other day at a base-ball game. There was a little boy near him who could see, so John took him on his knee and held him through the game, treating him to peanuts. He also gave a bootblack a dollar to go a dozen steps or so and tell a man that he wanted to see him.

A CITY OF PRETTY GIRLS.

The Way Steep Streets and Pure Air Contribute to the Beauty of Quebec Women.

[N. Y. Sun.]

"There are no homely girls in Quebec," a native-born Canadian said to a visitor to the ancient citadel city of Canada. "I have often stood at a window and watched for one in the throng passing on the sidewalks, but I have never yet seen a Quebec girl who could be described as ugly. I don't claim that they are all absolutely beautiful; but there is something in the clear, invigorating air, and perhaps in the soil and surroundings of this jolly and rocky city, that gives them sparkling eyes, brilliant complexions, and elasticity of step. Montreal is full of pretty women, but Quebec can beat her in that respect. Have you noticed how easily our Quebec girls climb the steep city streets. When they are ascending a sidewalk that slopes upward at an apparent angle of thirty degrees, they don't seem to mind it. They don't lag, they don't get out of breath, they don't stagger from one side of the walk to the other. They just go up as lightly and gracefully as any lady can walk across a parlor floor. You can't do it and keep pace with them, unless you've been brought up here. They'd tire you out before you got half way from Breakneck Steps to Dufferin Terrace. The exercise they get is partly the secret of their good looks."

"Then there's another thing that helps. They're out of doors half the time. On a pleasant evening the terrace, that broad plank promenade which stretches for a quarter of a mile along the top of the precipitous under the brow of Cape Diamond, is crowded with them, strolling in pairs and groups, chatting, laughing, and perhaps flirting a little. You don't mind that, do you? No. Well, look what a pleasure-ground it is. Two hundred feet above the waters of the St. Lawrence, and facing one of the very finest views in the world, as everybody admits, which ex-Cape Diamond, and from the gorge of Montmorency far back among the Laurentian Mountains. You can't blame us Quebecers for being proud of it. And there's where the Quebec girls breathe the pure air that puts roses in their cheeks and the snap into their eyes. Yes, sir; steep streets and plenty of fresh air, and, perhaps, the subtle influences of a world-famous landscape, form the chief secret of the beauty of our girls."

"MOUNTAIN OF PITY."

THE MEXICAN NATIONAL PAWN-SHOP.

A Beneficent New World Institution—Its Founder and the Charitable Work It Has Accomplished Since de Terreros.

[Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

Everybody who knows much about Mexico has heard of Senor Don Pedro Romero de Terreros, the first Count of Regla—who was plain Peter Terreros until a lucky mining adventure made him one of the richest men of the last century. Peter Terreros, a shop-keeper of limited means, conceived what was at first considered the wildest of ideas, viz., to drain the abandoned Real del Monte by means of a tunnel through the solid rock a mile and a quarter long from the level of the stream till it should strike the Santa Brigida shaft. He toiled with varying success from 1750 to 1763, when he struck a marvelous bonanza which for the next twelve years yielded an amount of silver that in our day would appear fabulous. Plain Peter became a Count, so wealthy that he furnished the people with more fables than Croesus of old.

He it was who founded the celebrated Monte de Piedad in the City of Mexico—one of the most beneficent institutions in the world—and in the year 1775 endowed it with $300,000. The name Monte de Piedad, means literally a "Mountain of Pity," and was not misapplied, for more than one hundred years this National pawn-shop was a sure protection to the public from the ruinous extortions of usurers, by whom, no doubt, Peter Terreros had suffered in his days of obscurity. It was sumptuously regulated and protected by the Government, and was intended solely to assist the needy in times of temporary embarrassment by lending money, on liberal terms and at reasonable rates of interest, on deposits of jewelry, plate, merchandise and other movable articles. Alike in peace and war, and through changing forms of Government, its honor was held sacred and the trusts unblemished during the revolutions and overturnings that devastated the country. It is estimated that for a period of one hundred years it afforded assistance to more than two hundred people daily.

As early as 1836 official records show that up to that time it had given aid to 2,232,611 applicants, and had distributed $31,674,702, besides having given $12,740 in cash alone! It was ruled by a general Board of Directors, who received the pledges. These articles were appraised at a fair valuation, the full amount of which (deducting the interest) was immediately paid to the pawnier. The articles were retained six months, during which time the owner was allowed to withdraw them upon refunding the sum advanced. If the debt was not paid at the end of that time, the pledges were disposed of at public sale, and if they brought more under the hammer than the original valuation, the difference was refunded to the owner, a proceeding not much like the business principles of our Chatham street "uncles!" The Monte de Piedad occupies a palace built by Cortez opposite the great cathedral, and is one of the most interesting places at the capital. Every species of garment may be seen there, from the tattered rags of the leprosa to the lace mantilla of the noble dame; from the blanket of the beggar to the military cloak and jeweled sword of the impoverished officer. Some of the most splendid table services of silver and gold I ever saw are crowded into the plate-rooms; and as for jewels—Aladdin would have considered his fabled palace a poor affair compared to the caskets of blazing diamonds and every known precious stone, for the magnificence of which Mexican ladies are proverbial. In the year 1880, having an available fund of $1,000,000 and unimpeachable credit, the directors of the Monte de Piedad determined to increase its capacities for usefulness by adding to its pawnbroking business the operations of a banking establishment. Under the new charter then obtained it was authorized to issue notes of circulation, called certificates, of denominations from $1 to $1,000. These notes were issued only from the mother bank, and were redeemable there or at any of its branches in silver coin. They were also receivable for Federal taxes, duties and for all local imports in the Federal district and in several States of the Republic. The Monte de Piedad had eight branches in the City of Mexico, and had recently established others in various cities. The amount of its paper in circulation was not publicly known, as no reports were published; but its honor was considered like that of old Caesar's wife—till one fine morning people woke up to find its doors closed and a bewildered crowd clamoring in vain outside! Nothing is sacred in these days which can bring gold to the coffers of the President and his advisers—not even the beneficent institution which had prevented so much distress and misery through a century of revolutionary difficulties, and it was utterly ruined by a demand from the Government upon it for more money than its treasury contained. It still carries on a limited pawn business, but is so crippled and impoverished as to be little like the old "Mountain of Pity."

A LARGE DIAMOND.—A very extraordinary diamond of no less than 457 carats has, we are informed, been shipped from South Africa and sold by a city firm to a syndicate of diamond merchants. The color equals, if not exceeds, that of the finest India diamonds, and in the opinion of competent judges it will cut to a perfect and lustrous brilliant. In drop shape it will weigh as nearly as can be estimated about 220 carats, or in license shape, brilliant, about 300 carats. The brilliant will there fore exceed in weight all the historical diamonds. The Koh-i-noor weighs 106 carats, the Regent of France 136 carats, and the Orlov, which was cut for weight, 195 carats. In size, color, purity and quality it is expected to prove to be the most marvelous stone ever known.—[London Times.]

[Brooklyn Union.]

The public schools of England are undergoing steady improvement. Fifteen years ago the attendance upon such schools was only one in fourteen of the school population, while now it has been brought up to one in every six. The last report shows 18,540 schools in the country, with an average attendance of 3,127,991, which is 73 per cent. of the total school population. This is but a poor showing beside the 95 per cent. reached in Germany and Switzerland, but it is a great advance upon the percentage of a few years ago. The two continental nations mentioned forbid the employment of any child in a manufactory until he has reached the age of 14, and even then he must by law attend a night school two years more, and the result is seen in the extraordinary high average of attendance upon the public schools.

Few Royal Marriages Are Rich Ones.

[London Truth.]

It is rather odd that so few of the royal family have made rich marriages. Except the Queen, the only rich member of the royal family is the Duke of Cumberland, who even now possesses a princely fortune, and when he makes up his quarrel with the Government of Berlin he will be "wealthy beyond the dreams of avarice." The Duke of Cambridge, however, has plenty of money, and his daughter possesses a large fortune, the greater part of which was accumulated by the late Duke during his residence at Hanover.

Randolph's Denunciation of Clay.

John Randolph's denunciation of Henry Clay, in a secret session in 1825, was so scathing that the victim could not answer, but sought revenge through a challenge. Randolph, pointing his long finger at him, said: "This man (winking. I crave your pardon), this worm (little animals, forgive me), was spit out of the womb of meanness, was raised to a higher life than he was born to, for he was raised to the society of blackguards. Some fortune—kind to him, cruel to us—has tossed him to the Secretaryship of State. Contempt has the property of decending, but she stops far short of him. She would die before she would reach him—he dwells below her fall. I would hate him if he did not despise him. It is not where he is, that puts my thought in action. That alphabet that writes the name of Theristes, of blackguard, of quality, refuses her letters for him. That mind which thinks on what it can not express can scarcely think on him—an hyperbole of meanness would be an eclipse for Clay."—[Ben Perley Poore.]

The Model Woman.

Charles Dickens wrote as follows: She only is a true and noble wife for whose ambition a husband's love and her children's adoration are sufficient, who applies her military instincts to the discipline of her household, and whose legislative exercise themselves in making laws for her nurse, whose intellect has field enough for her in communion with her husband, and whose heart asks no other honors than his love and admiration; a woman who does not think it a weakness to attend to her toilet, and who does not disdain to be beautiful, who believes in the virtue of glossy hair and well fitting gowns, and who eschews rents and ravelled edges, slipshod shoes and audacious make-up; a woman who speaks low and does not say much; who is patient and gentle, and intellectual and industrious, who loves more than she reasons, and yet does not love blindly; who never scolds and never urges, but adjusts with a smile; such a woman is the wife we have all dreamed of once in our lives, and is the mother we still worship in the backward distance of the past.

A KIND WORD FOR THE OYSTER.—It is not as generally understood as it should be that the oysters have medicinal qualities of a high order. They are not only nutritious, but wholesome, especially in cases of indigestion. It is said "there is no other alimentary substance, not even excepting bread, that does not induce indigestion under certain circumstances; but oysters never." Oyster juice promotes digestion. By taking oysters daily, indigestion, supposed to be almost incurable, has been cured; in fact, they are to be regarded as the most healthful article of food known to man. Individuals who have found all other kinds of food disagree with them, frequently discover in the oyster the required aliment. Raw oysters are recommended for hoarseness. Many of the leading vocalists use them regularly before concerts and operas, but their strongest recommendation is the remarkably wholesome influence exerted upon the digestive organs.—[Philadelphia Star.]

ORDER OF ELECTION.

The Lincoln County Court composed of the County Judge and the Justices of the Peace of Lincoln county at its term held on Monday, the 6th day of October, 1884, made the following order:

That W. G. Welch appeared and read to the court an act of the General Assembly of Kentucky entitled, "An act to authorize Lincoln county to raise money to aid in the construction of a railroad through said county," approved May 1, 1884 and thereupon presented a petition, which is filed, signed by the Chesapeake & Nashville Railway Co. by E. Zimmerman, President, and by W. G. Welch and 27 other citizens and residents of the justices' districts of Stanford, Walnut Flat, Turnersville and Hustonville precincts, asking this court to cause an election to be held in said districts to take the sense of the qualified voters thereon upon the proposition hereinafter set forth. Upon consideration of which petition the prayer thereof is granted and the court hereby orders that an election shall be held on Saturday the 15th day of November, 1884 in said Stanford, Walnut Flat, Turnersville and Hustonville justices' districts or precincts to take the sense of the qualified voters thereon upon the following stated proposition, to-wit: Whether or not the county of Lincoln shall issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 upon the credit and responsibility of the four above named districts and whether said county upon the credit and responsibility of the said districts shall acquire by purchase or gift, title to or the right-of-way over a strip of land through the county, such as may be necessary for the right-of-way, or for depots and such grounds as may be necessary at Stanford, Ky., for depot buildings, machine shops, round houses, water supply, &c., for the said Chesapeake & Nashville Railway. The amount of money to be raised and for the raising of which bonds are to be issued, in case the qualified voters in said districts by a majority vote adopt or affirm this proposition, is the aforesaid sum of $150,000, and such additional sum as may be necessary to acquire the aforesaid right-of-way, &c. The bonds to be issued for the purpose of raising said proposed sums of money shall not be sold at less than their par value nor bear a greater rate of interest than 6 per cent. per annum and to be due twenty years from the date when issued, or sooner, at the option of Lincoln county. The proceeds of said bonds are to be invested in the acquisition of the right-of-way as aforesaid and in the purchase at their par value of the first mortgage bonds of said Chesapeake & Nashville Railway Company, the purpose of the proposed action of said four districts being to aid the company in the construction and equipment of their road. But no such investment in bonds or right-of-way is to be made, unless their said road is built from Richmond Junction in Lincoln county and extended from that point through Lincoln county in a westerly direction to Nashville, Tenn., or to some railroad running to Nashville and unless said road is as well and substantially built and equipped as the main stem of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and no greater amount of such first mortgage bonds are to be issued by the company than $30,000 to the mile, and said bonds are not to be taken or paid for except when an equivalent amount of work on said road has been done (upon estimate of competent engineers) in Lincoln county, and 30 per cent. of same shall not be paid until the whole road from Richmond Junction in Kentucky, to Nashville in Tennessee is completed.

The said rights-of-way, &c., as hereinbefore mentioned, are to be sold to said railway company upon such terms as they may agree upon, to be paid in the capital stock of said company, by the commissioners to be appointed in behalf of Lincoln county in the event this proposition shall be adopted by the qualified voters as aforesaid. It is further ordered that the officers appointed to hold the regular election in said districts or precincts for the present year (except the sheriffs, who are to be appointed by the sheriff of Lincoln county as his deputies) shall hold the election and take the polls herein provided for at the regular place of voting in each of said districts on the said 15th day of November, 1884. At said election each voter shall be asked whether he votes for or against the proposition submitted (which is the proposition hereinbefore recited) and his vote shall be recorded in a poll book, to be provided by the clerk of this court at expense of county for that purpose at each voting place, which shall be returned in the time and by the same officers as in case of general elections, and the result of said election to be ascertained and certified in the manner prescribed by the act hereinbefore referred to. In each of said poll books there shall be a column headed, "For Railroad Aid" and a column headed, "Against Railroad Aid" and the votes of all persons voting in favor of the proposition herein recited shall be recorded in the column first named and of those voting against said proposition in the column last named.

At least 20 days' notice shall be given by the sheriff of Lincoln county of the election herein ordered by publication in the INTERIOR JOURNAL newspaper and by printed cables posted up at not less than three public places in each district in which the election is to be held. This order is made under the authority conferred by the act of Assembly aforesaid, approved May 1, 1884 and is intended to be in strict conformity to the provisions thereof. A COPY. ATT. J.
